Letter No. 673/E.S. dt 25.12.34 from the Comptr forwarding submitting certain proposals in regard to the scheme of deputation of Treasury Head Accountants for training in his Office.

1) The scheme of deputation of Treasury Head Accountants for training in the Comptroller's Office was sanctioned for two years in the year flagged 'P' and the Comptr was requested to submit a report on the result of its working at the end of that period.

2) The Comptr now states that two Head Accountants of Kanara & Chikballapur Depts were trained in 1933 and 1934.

3) In requesting orders as to the further continuance of the scheme, the Comptr solicits sanction either for the entertainment of a probationer on Rs 35 in place of his Office official post in the District Treasury and states that if this is not possible, the services of the two Head Accountants once trained, may be utilised in the several treasuries when the Third Head Accountants are deputed for training. He also suggests that 6 months training will be enough & that the following relaxation in Govt Order in Vol. IV - Part I is not necessary for the Examn to which these Accountants have to sit.

NOTE—Contn. Sheet.

WD 01955—GPB—22,500—12-6-34

4) If approved, this will be forwarded to the Revs. Comms. for remarks as to the result on the working of the scheme & its further continuance. ---

VSRao 4/1/43

5) If head accountants who have passed the accounts higher examination cannot cope with the duties of the absentee in the comptroller's office, it is even less probable that the substitute on 30 Rs could cope with it. On this ground there is not much to be said in favour of the proposal. But the Hd Acctt is posted to the comptroller's office for training and he should be given training and not be utilised as a substitute for someone who might be absent on leave. If the place of the absentee has to be filled up that is a matter for separate orders. The official posted for training should be merely trained and not treated as a leave reserve

6) The period of training may be limited to six months.

7) The view that these head accountants should not be allowed to know the procedure of audit in the sections of the comptroller's office is debatable. After all, the procedure referred to is not of the nature of a sacred mystery, to be confined only to the initiated. If the clerk is not to be trained in the audit work, it is difficult to see how much the deputation would improve his knowledge. on the other hand if he knows the objections that would be taken, and the errors that would be frowned against, he may avoid these in his treasury. The object of Audit should be not to perpetuate errors so that they may be pointed out, but to eradicate them. By keeping the official in the dark about this, nothing useful would be gained, but much that is ~~valuable~~ would be detracted from the value of the training. And further a clever man could know of these things from the various account codes. I am therefore inclined to the view that this inhibition is not necessary, seeing that after all the treasury official is also a govt servant and as a head accountant responsible for the whole work of the treasury on the accounts side.

8) There is no doubt, that when all the St. Try. Hd Acctts are trained, the type of work there would improve and the strain on the comptroller's office be greatly relieved. It would be a pity to discontinue to train these officials when only two have been trained and there is no sufficient data to pronounce the scheme a failure, seeing that it has not been given any sort of a trial yet

11) The original file concerning the scheme is put up and flagged P

12) The object was to man the Dist: Treasuries with qualified men and first by deputing an Accountant of the Comptr's office for work in the Dist: Treasury with an allowance of Rs 15 above their pays drawn in the Head Accountant of the Dist: Treasury for learning work in the Comptr's office with a similar allowance of Rs 15 to him.

~~Some of the difficulties mentioned by the Comptr~~ . . . . . .

13) Subd: for orders (with all refers duly flagged) with reference to paras 9 & 10.

9.1.32 H Seccy) 101/35.

14) The Comptr proposes that he may be allowed to Entertain a temp'y hand on Rs 30 against one of the accountants sent for training by the Dt. Treasury or if this is not Sd, he may not be required to send one of his men to the Treasuries but the two trained Dt Accts who are already in the Treasuries may go from one Dt to another. And the accountant of the latter Dt sent to the Comptr's office for training. The second alternative is certainly preferable as it does not involve Sate Cost. He also suggests the omission of the subject-vote Part I in the Examination of the Try Head Accts &c.

15) The opinion of the Rev Comr & the Rev Sec may be obtained in these proposals. K 17/3 &1813/35.

18 If the Comptroller feels that a Treasury Head Accountant under training cannot do justice to the duties of an Audit Office official on leave and that a separate leave substitute should be appointed, the proposal is one to which this Department can see no objection. I however doubt whether any substitute that could be got for Rs 30/- would have more experience than a Treasury Head Accountant who is always a senior official with a considerable amount of service.

19 The proposal made in the second paragraph will involve even greater cost. If a Treasury Head Accountant is sent to the Comptroller's Office for training a substitute will have to be appointed for him in this Department, as no Treasury can work without a Head Accountant for six months.

22 If a Head Accountant is posted for training to the Comptroller's office, it appears only proper that he should be given facilities to get the necessary training in all Branches of work relating to Treasury procedure and not utilised merely as a leave substitute. In this view, it would be worth while allowing the Comptroller to entertain a temporary hand against one of the Accountants sent to the St. Treasury.

I agree to the

The proposal to utilise the services of the trained Head Accountants in one District after another to relieve those posted for training to the Comptroller's office does not appear to be commendable as it will only have the effect of retarding the process of providing all the District Treasuries with trained hands to some extent.

I am not in favour of the

FINANCIAL 8 MAY 1935

30 The sum of these opinions of the Rev. Commr & the Rev Br represents in fine :-

1. that the system of training should not be given up.
2. that the Compte may be allowed to entertain a substitute in place of an Accdt sent to the Dt. Try.
3. that the trained Asstt. Accountant of a treasury going about to other Treasuries is not possible.
4. that the training of the Try Accountant in the Compte Office should include Audit procedure also.

31 It appears that if (2) above is permitted, the other conditions will of themselves resolve. But, there is the question of extra cost, if a substitute even on the minimum pay is approved. Who is to meet the cost & how, are points that require decision for Counsel's Opinion, the Rev. Dept Budget should bear the cost.

32 There is however much point in the R.C's opinion, (para 18 of note - 2nd sentence) where he expresses a doubt over the usefulness of a raw substitute in preference to the trained hand of the Treasury.

33 It will perhaps be interesting to get the Comptr's remarks on this phase of the case. He may be consulted 2.0, on this point as also on that of the extra cost.

It is with always an a/c of from T.A.D that can be sent out to the Dist^s. The Comptroller must have the discretion to send any A/c of any branch, on this view the appointment of substitutes to get on with the work of the absentee A/c^t or of such work as will have to be done by rearrangement of work in the section becomes imperative, since the Ist A/cst for the Try cannot be expected to take up the routine work of the Comptroller's office to the detriment of his training. This addl cost is inevitable if the scheme is to be worked successfully —

Training of the Asstts in the audit work appears to be not at all necessary for the kind of work that is expected of them in the Distt Treasuries. If this training can be arranged to be given to them within the all too brief period of 6 months training fixed it will be all to the good; but there should be a programme of training (~~for whatever kind of work experience may be available for them~~) which will concentrate attention on those ~~most~~ portions of the work which the training in will prove more useful in the Distt. Treasuries.

35 I do not see how the utilization of the trained Asstts ~~will in Dist~~ in the Distt Trs will retard the progress of the scheme. For sometime to come until all the Asstts are trained it will be inevitable that a few Treasuries have to be manned with the existing men. ~~and~~ The suggestion is therefore worthy of trial, ~~and~~

36 Comptroller may be consulted orally if necessary.

2. A substitute is necessary in place of the hand to be posted to the District Treasury to work as Head Accountant during the period the latter is under training in this office. The entertainment of a hand on Rs.30/- in the last grade does not mean that he will manage the work of the absentee. The work will have to be got through by a rearrangement of work among existing hands and with the help of the substitute asked for.

3. The extra cost involved in the training of the Treasury Accountants will have, of course, to be borne by the Revenue Department.

Comptroller to the Government of

To
S. Shamanna, Esq., B.A.,
Secretary to the Govt. of Mysore,
Financial Department, Bangalore.

Sir,

With reference to last para of G.O.No.FL.3695-704/G.F. 203-29-4 dated 16/17th October 1930 sanctioning the scheme of deputation of Treasury Head Accountants for training in this office, I have the honour to state that the scheme was given effect to as directed in your letter No.FL.2502/G.F.396-31-2 dated 5/7th November 1932 and two Head Accountants of Kadur and Chitaldoorg Districts were given training in 1933 and 1934 respectively and the training of the 2nd Head Accountant will be over by 5th January 1935. It is found in practical working that the District Treasury Head Accountant deputed for training has to be taken as a leave substitute and posted for work in a section wherever such vacancy occurs. In the circumstances he has to attend to the duties of the official on leave and also to acquaint himself with the whole work attended to in that section. This arrangement does not yield the result expected as the Head Accountant is unable to cope with the work of the absentee owing to his inexperience in the procedure adopted in this office and much less to acquaint himself in addition with other items of work. I therefore request that a substitute at least on a minimum pay of Rs.30 in the grade of 30-5/2-60 may kindly be allowed to be entertained in place of this office official posted to the District Treasury.

2/ If Government consider that a substitute cannot be allowed I would respectfully suggest that the services of the two Head Accountants who have undergone training may be utilized in the several Treasuries one after another and the Head Accountants in those treasuries may be posted to this office for training. If this is done a period of six months months will suffice to enable them to learn such portion of work of this office as will enable them to be more useful and to improve their out-turn of work in the treasury

In this connection I have to point out that it is not desirable to disclose the procedure of audit adopted in the various sections of the Central office to the official expected to work in departments where the knowledge of such procedure is not required and in this view the inclusion of the audit and account Vol. IV part I which contains both audit and accounts procedure is not necessary for the examination to which these Accountants have to sit.

I request early orders of Government as regards the continuance of the present system of training the District Treasury Head Accountants in the light of the above facts before any other Treasury Head Accountant is arranged to be posted by the Revenue Commissioner for training in this office.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your most obedient servant,

Comptroller.
